

game so I didn't really expect anything to happen for real, so we put it away not thinking twice about it. A day or two later I was by myself and got the thought of taking out the Ouiji Board and trying it myself, so I went and got it and put it onto the table, as I was about to take it out of the box and still holding it, I got this overwhelming and very strong supernatural feeling of the same cold evil feeling that came over me and it was unmistakable, immediately I once again panicked and took the Ouiji Board and ran out of the house onto a deck where I threw the Ouiji Board as far as I could out into some bushes and trees, all I could think of was getting rid of it as fast as I possibly could, and throwing it away in the trash can was not good enough, I wanted to create as much distance from myself and this Ouiji Board as possible.